The use of specific mitigation measures will avoid or mitigate the potentially significant environmental effects identified, and the preparation of an environmental impact report will not be required. Nine mitigation measures which include pre-construction surveys for rare-plants, Western Spadefoot Toad, bats, and migratory birds and raptors and established disturbance free buffers established by a qualified professional if sensitive species are found on-site.; resource agency permits (Corps, CDFW, RWQCB); temporary cessation of work and consultation with appropriate agencies if sensitive cultural resources have been discovered on-site. A mitigated negative declaration complete with a mitigation monitoring report has been previously adopted.
