Project Title: Riparian Restoration at Redi-Mix Cement Plant

Specific Project Location: 1320 Pt Reyes-Petaluma Rd.

Project Location: Point Reyes Station, CA

Description of Project: Project consists of removing impervious parking and staging area, ripping in topsoil and compost, planting native trees and plants by hand.

Name of Lead Agency Approving the Project: Marin Resource Conservation District

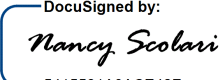

Name of Applicant, Person, or Agency Carrying Out Project: Salmon Protection and Watershed Network (SPAWN)

Applicant Address: P.O. Box 370 Forest Knolls, CA. 94933

Exempt Status – Class and Guidelines Section: Class 4 – CCR §15304 Minor alterations to land, and Class 33— CCR §15333 (small habitat restoration)

Reasons Why Project is Exempt: The project goals include: to reduce stormwater runoff, and improve riparian health by revegetating an area hardscaped for industrial use. Machine equipment will rip up concrete for permanent removal, then the soil will be prepared for hand planting of native vegetation species. This project is adjacent to salmonid bearing stream; thus this project will slow spread and sink runoff and decrease non-point source pollutants from entering the watershed, which will create and improve the area for wildlife. The project does not exceed 5 AC, will not adversely impact flora, fauna or other projects, and no hazardous materials will be disturbed or removed.
