Re: Sunset and Everett Project

The South Central Coastal Information Center received your records search request for the project area referenced above, located on the Hollywood, CA and Los Angeles, CA USGS 7.5' quadrangle. The following summary reflects the results of the records search for the project area and a ½-mile radius. The search includes a review of all recorded archaeological and built-environment resources as well as a review of cultural resource reports on file. In addition, the California Points of Historical Interest (SPHI), the California Historical Landmarks (SHL), the California Register of Historical Resources (CAL REG), the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP), the California State Historic Properties Directory (HPD), and the City of Los Angeles Historic-Cultural Monuments (LAHCM) listings were reviewed for the above referenced project site. Due to the sensitive nature of cultural resources, archaeological site locations are not released.

HISTORIC MAP REVIEW – Pasadena, CA (1896, 1900): indicated that in 1896, there was little to no visible development within the project site; however, there were several roads and buildings within the vicinity of the project area. The project site was located within an urban environment. Elysian Park was located to the north of the project site. Historic place names nearby included Los Angeles. In 1900, all previously mentioned features remained.

RECOMMENDATIONS

According to our records, the project site has not been subjected to any previous studies. Therefore, customary caution and a halt-work condition should be in place during all ground disturbing activities. In the event that cultural resources are encountered, all work within the vicinity of the find should stop, until a qualified archaeological consultant can assess the finds and make recommendations. Although the project sites are currently developed, there is the potential for buried and/or surface prehistoric and historic resources within the project boundaries. Agricultural remains, foundations, trails, hearths, trash dumps, privies, changes in soil colorations, human or animal bone, pottery, chipped or shaped stone, man-hole covers, railroad tracks, etc. are all potential indications of an archaeological or historical site. Excavation of cultural resources should not be attempted by project personnel. Additionally, the effect of this project on any historic structures should be evaluated. Therefore, It is also recommended that any structures or built-environment resources that are 45 years and older and in the area of potential effect should be identified, recorded, and evaluated for local, state, or national significance by a qualified consultant prior to the approval of project plans. Finally, the Native American Heritage Commission should be consulted to identify if any additional traditional cultural properties or other sacred sites are known to be in the area.

For your convenience, you may find a professional consultant* at www.chrisinfo.org. Any resulting reports by the qualified consultant should be submitted to the South Central Coastal Information Center as soon as possible.

*The SCCIC does not endorse any particular consultant and makes no claims about the qualifications of any person listed. Each consultant on this list self-reports that they meet current professional standards.

Due to processing delays and other factors, not all of the historical resource reports and resource records that have been submitted to the Office of Historic Preservation are available via this records search. Additional information may be available through the federal, state, and local agencies that produced or paid for historical resource management work in the search area. Additionally, Native American tribes have historical resource information not in the California Historical Resources Information System (CHRIS) Inventory, and you should contact the California Native American Heritage Commission for information on local/regional tribal contacts.

The California Office of Historic Preservation (OHP) contracts with the California Historical Resources Information System's (CHRIS) regional Information Centers (ICs) to maintain information in the CHRIS inventory and make it available to local, state, and federal agencies, cultural resource professionals, Native American tribes, researchers, and the public. Recommendations made by IC coordinators or their staff regarding the interpretation and application of this information are advisory only. Such recommendations do not necessarily represent the evaluation or opinion of the State Historic Preservation Officer in carrying out the OHP's regulatory authority under federal and state law.
